QOBO ELECTRONIC WASTE RECYCLING

Qobo Electronic Waste Recycling has been involved in the diversion of electronic waste from landfills since 2010. We became an accredited member of the Electronic Waste Association of South Africa (eWASA) in 2012. In that time we have been able to assist various households and companies in Tshwane, Johannesburg and the East Rand in ensuring that the electronic waste they produce remains within the recycling stream. We offer:

FREE COLLECTION OF DEFECTIVE AND UNWANTED ELECTRONIC WASTE

We provide free collection of defective, out-dated and generally unwanted electric and electronic waste (e-waste), all recovered defective equipment is dismantled for recycling. Components and materials recovered from dismantled equipment will include plastic, metal and printed circuit boards all these items are then delivered to downstream partners for further processing. The client is provided with an e-waste collection note on removal and an e-waste disposal letter once the e-waste has been processed.

E-waste is a risk to your organisation:

- It's costly to store.
- It renders the space that it occupies unproductive.
- It poses a security risk, as it might attract thieves.

CERTIFIED ERASURE & PHYSICAL DESTRUCTION OF HARD DRIVES

In compliance with legislation requiring the protection of personal information, we wipe or physically destroy all hard drives contained in the computer equipment we recover this is a base standard for every collection we perform. In some instances clients may need more auditable methods of data wiping and data protection. Thus we offer the following solutions:

Blancco Certified erasure: We utilise Blancco's cloud-based erasure service that ensures all data on hard drives is securely wiped and a detailed report is provided on the erasure, ensuring that the client has a comprehensive audit trail. Please contact us for a quote.

Physical destruction: Hard drives are shredded to ensure that they will not be re-used the whole process can be videotaped for the client, a certificate of destruction will be provided once the destruction is completed. Please contact us for a quote.
